Subject: Re: Information needed on NOTAMs

Sir

The number you called is the correct number for NOTAM issuance. I have attached a memo that provides guidance for tracking and follow up on complaints to assist us with this one and any possible future problems that you may incur. In order to address your issues it's important to have as much information as possible for adequate follow up, this includes the date and time in which you called, if known the identified facility that actually received your call and if possible the specialist initials that you spoke with. This information is very helpful in providing timely follow up on behalf of our group and Lockheed Martin Flight Services.

I have copied the appropriate persons to follow up on your issue, please provide as much information as possible to Mr. Anthony Johnson, his email is copied in this note and he will insure that this complaint is followed through with.

Sir,

I'm sorry but I will have to defer to my FAA counter part who is addressed on this e-mail.

Subject Information needed on NOTAMs

I'm looking for information on how to get a NOTAM to your agency.

Last night we had our tower lights out but could not reach anyone to provide a NOTAM. One of the reasons I was told that we could not reach someone was that there was a missing plane overnight, and that the employee who would normally take the NOTAM was needed to man/search on radar.

Is there a more efficient way to contact someone other than the 877-487-6867? Do you have a web page that will allow us to report a NOTAM, or perhaps an alternate number in another city?
